Bucks OK's Trot Track

Organization Candidates Win; Record Primary Vote

Referendum Approved By 3,667 Margin

By BOB REINHARDT
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Bucks County voters yesterday gave their approval to a harness race track, with pari-mutuel windows, by an unofficial vote of 22,282 to 18,615.

Bucks was one of six counties which approved the track referendum. Fourteen counties voted on the issue. Philadelphia voters also approved the proposal yesterday.

Racing interests already have their eyes on a race track site in Bucks County, and caused the issue to go on the ballot with petitions.

In Lower Bucks

John T. Welsh, county Democratic leader and former commissioner, who put the petitions in circulation for the racing group, announced the track will be in Lower Bucks, after returns showed the racing issue had won.

The track location and identity of its backers will not be revealed, Welsh said, until the group petitions the State Harness Racing Commission for a license. Other groups may also apply, now that the county has approved racing. The Commission, under state law, can license only four tracks in the state.

Strong pro-racing votes in Lower Bucks helped carry the racing issue, despite a concerted campaign against it by Protestant clergymen. Cards marked "vote yes" were distributed outside polling places.

All Bristol Borough precincts voted for harness racing, while voters of Yardley, Tullytown, Hulmeville and Penndel supported it. All but one Bristol Township precinct, the fifth ward, first precinct, approved it. In Falls Township, only upper district 1, first precinct, voted against racing.

Harness racing won approval in all Bensalem Township precincts. In all, approximately 103 of Bucks County's 158 precincts voted for it.

Top leaders of both Bucks County political parties appeared to favor harness racing, although they were reluctant to discuss it. Bucks County GOP Chairman Frederick E. Ziegler, in discussing the results of his party's primary election, added a "no comment" on the subject.

Quick To Sign

Democratic Party workers under Welsh collected 11,000 signatures on the vote petitions, although only 5,000 were needed. Both Democrats and Republicans were quick to sign them.

Welsh early this morning said he had circulated the petitions

6 Counties Give OK To Pari-Mutuels

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Voters of six counties, all in the eastern part of the state, approved pari-mutuel betting on harness horse races in yesterday's referenda.

The voters of the 14 counties which held local option balloting on the gambling issue split sharply.

Philadelphia, the largest of the counties, broke from the gate first to lead Delaware, Luzerne, Bucks, Chester and Northumberland counties into the circle of legalized betting. The margin in Northumberland was a scant 572 votes.

Allegheny County (Greater Pittsburgh) turned down the proposal for state-regulated betting on sulky races along with the western counties of Erie, Crawford, Westmoreland and Fayette, and the eastern counties of Lehigh, Monroe and Berks.

Philadelphia, where the followers of Thoroughbred racing have been patronizing neighboring New Jersey's race tracks for years, gave a whopping 154,555 margin in favor of harness race betting for its own back yard. The vote was 197,017 for to 42,462 against.

Allegheny County, however, piled up a protest vote which was increasing as the returns trickled in from outlying districts. With 1,152 of 1,228 precincts reported, the vote was 202,419 against to 155,911 for.

Allegheny is the home county of Gov. David L. Lawrence, who signed the harness race betting bill passed by the 1959 General Assembly, although he conceded later he was "only a $2 bettor."

Partial Victory

The split voting among the 14 counties where the question was on the ballot marked a partial victory for opposition forces led by the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, the Lord's Day Alliance of Pennsylvania, and the Pennsylvania Assn. of Parents and Teach-

Rhee Resigns As President Of Korea

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — Syngman Rhee resigned as president of the Republic of Korea today and Foreign Minister Huh Chung, appointed to the cabinet only two days ago, took over the post.

One of Huh's first acts as acting president was to state publicly he still expected President Eisenhower to visit South Korea June 22 and would send a new invitation immediately.

Huh did not even wait for formal action on Rhee's resignation by the National Assembly before

Good Evening!

Election over. Let's get on with the business.

Vacation-planning business, we mean. You realize there's only three more days of this April and then it's May, June, July, for heaven's sake, and before we know it the first frost?

But much to be thankful for between now and then. Yes siree. Soon, the first asparagus; then blueberry muffins; then the homegrown tomatoes and Bucks County roasting ears and then. . you know, summer's going to be a most enjoyable time.

Statewide, harness racing took quite a beating.

Only five counties out of 14 okayed the idea with Allegheny being the biggest surprise of all. Those Pittsburghers love their horse racing, but they don't want it in their own front yard.

Philadelphia true to form and Bucks County says "yes" to the trotting possibilities and frankly the whole issue has been one over which we've been unable to build up a head of steam.

Somehow we've got an idea there are infinitely more important problems to get excited about today than the question of whether we're allowed to kiss a two-dollar bill goodbye at a pari-mutuel window.

More showers for the sun-baked lawns and flower gardens.

And cooler breezes all over the place today. Which reminds us of the plaint of one of our typographical artists yesterday who observed, "Whew, it's hot. But it's all right. I may holler about the heat, but I holler louder about the cold!"

Selling is like shaving. Miss a day and you're a bum.

Overheard in a jammed nightclub: "I'm so full of penicillin that if I sneeze in here I'm sure going to cure somebody."

Dowager, looking at modern outdoor furniture, to salesman: "Whatever happened to garden furniture you could get out of?"

Take it easy with the driving.

National Legion Commander Raps Castro Sympathizers

By JIM GOODMAN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

National American Legion Commander Martin B. McKneally, speaking at a Legion post dedication banquet last night in Newtown, charged that Americans who sympathize with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro are not loyal "to the American ideals."

McKneally addressed more than 250 American Legion members and officials of the Ninth District of Pennsylvania at a banquet that climaxed the dedication ceremonies for the new Morell-Smith Legion Post.

McKneally blasted the "high placed and articulate critics" who defend "Cuba's Communist - oriented government" in newspapers and television.

Speaking in a resonant voice and measuring each phrase as he made it, the 44-year-old attorney and Legion spokesman criticized the film and television industries and the Broadway plays that "no longer entertain or enoble our spirits."

McKneally asserted that the present dramas are "designed to make us think." But he asked, "Whom are we supposed to think like? Some person with exalted patriotism or someone with tarnished and perverted ideals?"

The Legion official is a well-known opponent of Hollywood film companies that employ persons charged with refusing to cooperate with Congressional investigating companies.

McKneally charged that "there is a great gulf between our thinking on the basic issues facing America" and the critics in the "field of propaganda."

The Legionnaire asserted that the "weakness in our education system is that it substitutes life-adjustment for the rigors of mental training.

Questioned after his talk, McKneally explained some of his objections to the film industry.

"I do not think a film or art form should question my basic beliefs," he said.

Waldorf Agreement

"We (the Legion) do not want to censor films, we merely want the producers to live up to the Waldorf Agreement," McKneally said. The agreement, made in 1947, provided that the film industry would not hire persons who did not cooperate with Congressional committees.

The commander was introduced last night by Walter E. Alessandroni, national executive com-

Know History Of Courthouse?

A leaflet giving the history of Bucks County's courthouses and a description and pictures of the new seven-story courthouse office building will be distributed Saturday, May 7, when open house will be held in the new building.

The booklet is being prepared by the Bucks County Planning Commission staff, at the request of the County Commissioners. It will include a cross section diagram of the new building, showing the location of all offices.

'How' Is Mystery

Mother, 2 Children Drown In Farm Pond

A mother and two of her children mysteriously drowned early last night in an irrigation pond on their farm at Bridgeboro Road, Edgewater Park Township, adjacent to Levittown, N. J.

The bodies of Mrs. Antonette Vasaci, 40 and her children, Anthony Jr., 9, and Marie, 1, were found floating in about six feet of water shortly after 7:30 p.m., just after they set out to dig [illegible].

The victims were last seen by their uncle, Piacido Varsaci, 42, of 653 High St., Burlington, N. J., when they left their farmhouse which is about 200 yards from the pond.

According to police, Mrs. Varsaci was accompanied by the two children when she left the house. One-year-old Marie was being pulled in a little red wagon down the farm road by her mother.

When the trio did not return home at 7:30 p.m., Anthony Varsaci, 43, husband and father of the victims, became alarmed and Ballots Cast By 43 Pct.

Bucks County's Democratic and Republican organizations, with one minor exception, gathered winning majorities for its candidates in yesterday's primary elections.

Congressman Willard S. Curtin, who is completing his second term as Bucks-Lehigh Congressman, led his party-mates by receiving 41,057 votes in the district 24,246 in Bucks County and 16,811 in Lehigh.

In November Curtin will be challenged by Donald V. Hock, former Allentown mayor and the only Democratic candidate yesterday.

Curtin's opponent, Harrison A. Moyer, Lehigh County accountant, got only 5,871 district votes, 2,199 in Bucks and 3,672 in Lehigh.

43 Per Cent Vote

A primary record 43 per cent of the voters went to the polls according to Harold F. Hellyer, Sr., chief clerk of the Bucks Bucks County Board of Elections.

The race for the Republican nomination for state representative from the second district provided one of the few surprises.

Organization candidate John H. Thomas, of Falls Township, won, as expected, but he had more trouble than his supporters anticipated.

William L. Pascoe, Croydon businessman, running as an independent, polled 3,016 voted compared to Thomas' 4,757, according to unofficial figures.

On the Democratic side incumbent James J. A. Gallagher was renominated with ease. He defeated challenger Jack Ford, of Falls Township, by a three-to-one margin. Gallagher got 8,156 votes while Ford, backed by the rebel Democrats, received 2,712.

Louis R. Hahn former Radio announcer running as a write-in candidate on both tickets received an unofficial 152 votes.

No Opposition

There was no opposition to the organization candidates, of both parties, in the first assembly disgrict. The first district has two assemblymen.

The candidates nominated yesterday were Republicans Alan D. Williams and Margarette Kooker.

Denies U.S. Intervention

Ike Warned Rhee: Trouble Might Come

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower revealed today he had warned Korean President Syngman Rhee that trouble might come from reported irregularities in last month's South Korean elections. But he denied any suggestion that the United States had intervened in that country's internal affairs.

Eisenhower paid high tribute to Rhee—who resigned today—as a tremendous patriot who can truthfully be called the father of his country. But he said that as Rhee grew older the Korean President had no doubt made some mistakes.

Eisenhower mentioned in this connection the irregularities in the balloting March 15 when Rhee was elected to a fourth term. Rioting started soon thereafter.

Will Make Trip

Eisenhower said he still had every intention of making his scheduled June 22 visit to South Korea.

Veteran Committeemen Lose Posts In L. Bucks Fights

Pedestrian Killed By Car

A Philadelphia man died in Nazareth Hospital early this morning after being struck by a car during a driving rainstorm last night.

Thomas Werner, 27, a Courier-Times reporter, 7224 Dungan Road, Philadelphia, hit Watson W. Kolalowskin, 46, at about 8:30 p.m., as the man was returning home from the polls.

According to hospital officials, the victim never regained consciousness. Werner was driving toward Roosevelt Boulevard on Haldeman Ave. The mishap occurred near the intersection of Haldeman Ave. and Tomlinson St., in the northeast section of the city.

Drownings

set out to search for them in his truck. He was accompanied by his brother, Salvatore.

The two men spotted the bodies floating in the pond shortly after they began their search. The first clue that the bodies might be in the water was the little wagon which was parked on the edge of the 30-foot bank of the irrigation pond in six-feet-deep water.

Salvatore Varsaci climbed down the steep bank and waded into the pond to retrieve the bodies which were located approximately 10 feet from each other.

Vain Attempt

The Beverly and Endeavor rescue squads administered oxygen and artificial respiration in the rain for almost a hour in an attempt to bring the victims back to life. They were pronounced dead by Dr. Norman K. Boudwin.

Burlington Coroner Peter W. Smith, who was on the scene, ordered the bodies to be taken to the Burlington County Hospital, Mount Holly, for a post-mortem to determine the exact cause of death. Investigating the tragedy was Detective Jules Branyay of the Edgewater Park State Police.

The Varsacis have one other child, Kathy Varsaci, 7.

Storm Broke Out

A few minutes before the bodies were discovered, an electrical storm broke out, drenching the men as they brought up the dead, New Jersey State Police said.

State police were mystified as to how Mrs. Varsaci and the children tumbled down the bank when it was still fairly light outside.

The irrigation pond, familiar to all members of the family, is located a quarter of a mile from the house.

The victims were seen leaving the house by another brother, Placidio, who owns the farm with Anthony, Salvatore, and James Varsaci. Mrs. Varsaci was pulling Marie in the little wagon and holding Anthony Jr. by the hand.

"We can't find anything on the bank they might have stumbled over, but the rain washed everything away," said one trooper during the investigation.

Boy May Have Tripped

He said one theory was that the three were walking back toward the house when the boy tripped and fell over the bank.

"Maybe the mother panicked and rushed to the edge and also fell in, holding the baby," said the trooper.

He added, "but we'll never be able to say for sure. They're all gone and nobody saw the accident."

Although the property was an apple farm, the family raised small patches of vegetables for their own use, State Police said.

The showing of Pascoe was even more surprising in view of the fact that he ran a relatively quiet campaign, and appeared to have few supporters. After looking over the results Thomas said it looked as if he had been cut by some factions of the party.

Acknowleges Defeat

In acknowledging defeat, Ford said last night, "The large number of votes received by Gallagher indicate he has the support of the majority of the Democrats in this area.

"I'd like to wish him good fortune and hope that the support he has received indicates further support and victory in November."

More interesting than the Congressional nomination race in the Republican primary was that for state committeeman. The county GOP organization supported, and elected, Emil W. (Bill) Lindeberg, of Middletown Township against incumbent Paul C. Voltz, Langhorne Manor. Lindeberg drew 17,649 votes, against 7,194 for Voltz.

Dr. Flood Elected

Dr. John A. Flood, New Hope burgess and dentist, ran independently to be elected delegate to the Democratic National Convention. He defeated a neighbor, Robert Montgomery, of Solebury township.

For State Superior Court Judge, Philadelphia Judge Gerald F. Flood won the Democratic nomination. He was challenged in the party primary by Blair F. Gunther, the only Republican candidate.

For Auditor General, there was no contest in either party. Thomas Z. Minehart, Montgomery County Democrat and Robert F. Kent, Meadville, Republican, got their party's votes in Bucks County.

Charles C. Smith, of Philadelphia, won the Republican State Treasurer vote against George J. Brett, Columbia. Grace M. Sloan Clarion, was the only Democratic candidate.

State Committeeman

Mrs. Adienne K. Franklin, won the unopposed election for Republican state committeeman from Bucks County. In the Democratic election, incumbents Eva Horne Derr, Haycock and Philip J. Waters were unopposed for new terms.

Bucks County GOP Chairman Frederick E. Ziegler said he was ecpecially impressed with the large majority given by county Republicans to Vice President Richard M. Nixon, for president, and to Curtin.

Rain, Then Clearing, Is The Weather Report

You can put your bumbershoots and rubber booties in the closet this afternoon, when a gradual clearing is expected to replace early morning showers, says the weatherman.

High temperatures will range between 65 and 70 degrees in Lower Bucks County. Tonight and tomorrow; the weather will be fair throughout the Keystone State, with cooler temperatures a local low of 45 or 50 expected. It's expected to reach 70 degrees tomorrow.

Yesterday's high at 3 p.m. was 75. This morning's low, at 7 a.m., was 53 degrees.

Rhee Resigns

stepping into the presidential shoes.

Since Vice President John M. Chang, a member of the Democratic Party opposition, resigned his job last Saturday, constitutionally a presidential vacancy falls to the foreign minister.

Huh called a news conference shortly after Rhee announced his resignation. He promptly was asked who now ruled the country and whether it might be the martial law commander.

"Under the constitution of this country, the senior member of the cabinet acts as president," Huh said. Huh is the senior member as foreign minister.

Rhee, plagued by six weeks of violent protest to alleged fraud in last month's presidential election, sent a terse message to the National Assembly saying he was bowing to its demand that he resign. He said he would retire to private life.

The assembly had adjourned when the announcement came but was expected to approve the resignation speedily Thursday.

Asked if he considered Rhee as president until that time, Huh replied, "of course not."

Obviously speaking as the acting president, Huh said he would welcome Eisenhower's visit.

"If a new invitation is necessary I will extend it promptly," he said.

He said there were "certain points in present relations between the United States and the Republic of Korea which are smooth and satisfactory."

But he added: "I believe there is a waste of American aid funds and improper management.

"I will make an effort to bring the ties between the United States and Korea closer and more intimate and bring about better understanding," Huh said.

The nation, weary of the excesses which had cost life and limb and knowing in advance the Rhee resignation was inevitable, received the news quietly. The latest of six weeks of demonstrations was reported dying out in the port city of Pusan.

Local Battles Lend Spirit To Election

Democrats Russell J. Thompson and John A. A. Crowley and Republicans Ike Adams and George Palmer were among the major casualities in yesterday's local primary election contests.

Thompson, president of Local 4889, U.S. Steelworkers at the Fairless Works, was defeated in a bid for reelection to his post as committeeman in Bristol Township's ninth ward, third precinct. He was beaten by a 97 to 75 vote by Frederick Herman.

Adams, recently appointed to the Bristol Township Board of Commissioners, was defeated 83 votes to 43 votes by Wesley Williamson in a battle for the GOP committeeman post in the township's fourth ward, first precinct.

Crowley, one of the real, old-time Lower Bucks County Democrats, was eliminated from his post as committeeman in Middletown Township's Lower Two District. Crowley wound up third in a three-way race won by Frank A. Harwzinski. The latter ran on a ticket with Catherine Oettinger, wife of William Oettinger, township justice of the peace.

Mrs. Oettinger tallied 115 votes to win the committeewoman post over Helen R. Flynn, 30 votes, and Lenore Dougherty, 61 votes.

Borough Quiet

There was only one contested committee post in the Bristol Borough elections. That was in the Fifth Ward, first precinct where Edith Moulson defeated Ida M. Connoly, 53 votes to 6.

The only other surprise in the borough election was that James Spinelli won a committee seat in the first ward, second precinct when he received five write-in votes. There was no candidate for the office.

Middletown Races

Crowley shared his defeat in the Middletown Township primary with another well - known Democrat, Robert Saunders.

Saunders, who ran for township auditor on the Democratic ticket last fall, was defeated 242 votes to 159 votes by Bernard Ashoff in his bid for reelection to the Lower Four District committee post.

In the same district, Charlotte Cochran captured the Democratic committeewoman's post with a 251 to 148 vote win over Marion E. Abrams.

The only other contest in Middletown was for the Democratic committee posts in Lower District Three. In those races, Mary A. McGinley and John L. Lindsay registered 112 and 105 votes, respectively, to defeat Miriam Schwartz, 101 votes, and Charles O. Luther, 103 votes.

Township Battles

Bristol Township accounted for the great bulk of local battles for committee posts. Results for that township include:

First ward — Democratic committee woman, Patricia Gosline, 72; Inez Young, 21. Republican committeeman, Harry W. Haegele, 130, Thomas Myers, 95.

Second ward — Democratic committeeman, Francis Clark, 178, Louis Schum, 120.

The "Accused" Win

Falls Township Democrats elected three people to committee positions who are now being "tried" by their party, as between 40 and 50 per cent of those registered to vote turned out at the polls yesterday.

Milton Berkes, Norma Shaw and Donald Nuss, were returned to their respective committee posts. The three are currently appearing before a party trial board on charges of not supporting organization candidates in last election.

In the Upper Fourth, first precinct, Berkes, board of supervisors chairman, received 163 votes and John M. Masterson received 106 tallies.

Nuss was given 133 votes by Upper Fourth, second precinct voters and Dolores T. Murphy received 123 tallies to win committee seats. Rosemarie Polyak and George Hurchick, Sr., the losers, polled 113 and 101 votes respectively.

William P. Daily tallied 132 votes to win in the Upper First Third Precinct and Leo J. Brennan trailed with 77.

Terrels Wins

Paul A. Terrels, party chairman, won over his opponent by more than 200 votes, as Democrats gave him 316 ballots. Joseph R. Alexander received 111 votes and Mary Louise Green 302, overridding Sylvia K. Baird's 120 votes.

In Upper District Two William D. Roberts won over William M. Martier and Catherine C. Afflerbach defeated Rita Offenheiser.

Roberts received 195 ballots against Martier's 91 and Mrs. Afflerbach tallied 236 as opposed to Mrs. Offenheiser's 78.

84 To 62

Vern Summerville polled 84 votes to beat John E. French's 62, in the Upper Third, first precinct contest.

In the Upper Third, second precinct, Earl R. Keen received 96 votes to best Stephen J. Lengyel's 62.

Carmen J. DeMarco overrode his rival in the Upper Fourth, third precinct contest with 131 votes. Harold J. Pomerantz received 41.

In the Upper Fourth, fourth precinct battle, Doris O'Brien won over Jane Jones 118 to 52.

Four - Vote Margin

The closest battle was in the Upper Fourth, fifth precinct, where Joseph F. Basile won by a scant four votes, receiving a total of 145. His rival Edward Esposito tallied 141. Beatrice H. Clark won the committeewoman contest with 166 ballots against Dolores P. Chappell's 121.

Victory For Old

Tullytown's older residential section emerged victorious over the new yesterday's committee post battles winning three out of four posts.

Political friction has long been in existence between the old section of Tullytown and the new Levittown section of the borough.

In the Democratic contest, Edward C. Paolella won with 154 ballots, against his rival, Stephen Dobran's 116.

Marion Cutchineal became committeewoman by polling 155 tallies. Margaret Connor received 119 votes.

Ninety-three votes gave William Heidrick the nod over Ralph T. Park, who received 50 ballots in the GOP fight.

Constance B. Chletcos got 74 votes to beat Susanne Gardyzesky, who received 67 tallies.

Both Democratic committee persons live in the old section of Tullytown.

The newly elected GOP committeeman, from the old section, had held that post previously for 17 years. Heidrick is also Tullytown Republican Club chairman, being elected to that post last month.

In the lone contest in Lower Makefield Republican James Fitzcharles, 3rd, won over John Bevan by ten votes.

Yardley Fire Company Starts Annual Fund Drive Sunday

The Yardley Volunteer Fire Company will open its annual fund drive May 1. The drive will end May 30.

Goal for the drive this year is $24,775.

Chairman of the campaign is Peter Sabatini, assisted by Ray Sands. An additional 25 workers will cover the Yardley, Lower and Upper Makefield areas which the company serves.

Door-To-Door

The drive will be held door-to-door between 7 and 9 p.m. each evening.

Company spokesmen have reported that the drive goal of $24,775 is the minimum required by the company to provide adequate round-the-clock fire protection through the coming year.

The amount includes operation, maintenance and repair of fire trucks; purchase of fire-fighting accessories, insurance; maintenance of alarm and communication systems; training in the latest fire-fighting techniques; and expansion of the company's radio system with additional signal tone receivers.

Tone Receivers

The added signal tone receivers will be placed in the homes of firemen not living within hearing distance of the fire alarm and those living in outlying areas of Lower Makefield Township. The signal tone receivers will further insure full response to fire calls.

The goal figure also includes cost of a lot at Main St. and College Ave., Yardley, which the company purchased recently. The lot will be used for a future new fire headquarters.

The recent land acquisition is part of the company's new five year plan. The five-year plan will depend mostly on results of the fund drive in each of the years.

New Firehouse

Cost of the new firehouse has been estimated at a minimum of $100,000. A company spokesman said construction on the new headquarters is expected to begin in 1965 at the latest.

The company has said that the average cost of answering a call last year was $99. All members of the company are volunteers and receive no salaries.

The company has been serving the area since 1897. Its only source of support is from voluntary donations.
